The Marpooner's Story.

New Badford, June I, 1589.

DR. J. C. Ayen & Co.—Twenty years ago I was a harpooner in the North Facile, when five others of the crew and myself were laid up with security. Our bodies were bloated, gums swellen and bleeding, tecth loose, purple blotches all over us, and our breath seemed rotten. Take it by and large we were pretty badly off. All our lime, late was accidentally destroyed, but the expitain had a couple dozen bottles of Ayen's Sarsaranticla and gave us that. We recovered out quicker than I have svor seem men brought about by any other treatment for Scurvy, and I've seen a good deal of it. Seeing no mention in your Almanac of your Sarsaparilla being good for scurvy, I thoughly you ought to know of Lins, and so, send you the facts.

Respectfully yours, Ralph Y. Wingars.

THE DARK CONTINENT. hite Men Who Visit Africa Invited to

When an African chief travels he takes the whole or a part of his household with him. The simple aborigines, therefore, are apt to look upon the solitary white traveler who wanders through their country without a single wife in his train as a suspicious charac ter. They are quite sure he needs close watching to prevent his running off with some of the females of the tribe. Dr. Barth, the explorer, said, after living for five years in Africa, that it would be better for a traveler in those regions to take his wife with him, if possible. He said the natives would respect him more and he would get along better. "They had nothing to object to me," he wrote, "except my being a

If the traveler has no wife the native chiefs, as a rule, are not backward about offering to supply the deliciency. Nearly all the explorers have had some annoying experiences with Kings who were anxious to have them settle down, marry into the royal family and grow up with the country. Some travelers have felt compelled to leave very abof women who were determined to claim them as their husbands. Dr. Buchner, the German traveler who lived for six months at the capital of the Musta Yanyo about five years ago, was very much distressed by the deep interest with which he had unwit-tingly inspired the sister of that Central African potentate. He describes her as a middle-aged and remarkably unprepossessing person of great avoirdupois. She insisted that Buchner take her for his wife and settle down comfortably as the joint proprietor of her extensive herds and fields. She importaned him so frequently that he was glad to escape er at last by quitting the country.

One of the daughters of the King of the Ambuellas, near the Zambesi River. fell desperately in love with Serpa Pinto, the Portuguese explorer, who returned to Africa a few months ago. Her elder sister, who ably abetted her matrimonial designs, was very indignant when Pinto refused to marry the young girl. She wanted to know, in the shrillest of tones, if there were any prettier women in the country he came from, and what sort of a man he was anyhow. The sharp-witted wife of one of Pinto's porters heard the row and entered the but. Assuming an air of great indignation, she told their Royal Highnesses that Pinto was her husband, and they had better let him alone. She bundled them out of the hut, and Pinto and his party left early next morning to avoid any further complications. In the picture Pinto's book contains of the infatuated young woman she appears to be quite a line specimen of an African beauty. Explorers have learned by experience that it is best to permit their porters to take their women along with them. even if their journey is to be thousands of miles in length. Mr. Hore, a missionary on the great

Lake Tanganyika, found near the southern coast three years ago a flourishing tribe whose ruler was a woman. She was a good-looking negress, nearly forty years old, and she was attended everywhere she went by a train of fifty ladies in waiting. Mr. Hore was the dirst white man Queen Mwema had seen. and she thought she would like to have the pale-faced stranger permanently of his brethren to reside in her district The Queen said she would give them houses and plenty of land.—A Missionary, in N.Y. Strong Women and Tender Men.

"The best part of human character is the tenderness and delicacy of feeling in little matters, the desire to soothe and please others-minutize of the social virtues." Thus writes Emerson, and is it not true? Should we not cultivate this tenderness of delicacy? There are some great hearts who do not shame to shed a tear, although men in general consider it womanish, effeminate, some-thing to be ashamed of to be tender and pitiful as a woman.

I do not place among the tender and pitiful those hysterical, emotional, sentimental women, of whom we all know some specimens. I would teach my daughters to be strong and brave; my sons to be tender and pitiful; my daughters to bewere of idle tears; my sons to be a compared to be the strong for the crosssons to know no shame for the eyes moisture; my daughters to be strong-minded as well as lender; my sons to be tender as well as strong —N. Where a Bicycle Is Unknown.

There are on the Continent some spots in which the bicycle is still a novelty. One of these seems to be northern Donmark. A correspondent relates that he recently made a bicycle tour in Jutland; and that, upon a second time passing through a small village near Viborg he was told a story which, for a day or two, had much exercised the local gosips. On the occasion of of his first visit to the neighborhood the lighted his lamp, rode at topmost speed for many miles along a lonely higway in the dark. He was seen by a passing countryman, who, stricken with terror fell upon his knees, and was found in that attitude by a belated letter-carrier 'What is the matter?' the postman asked. "What, indeed?" stammered the peasant; 'for the devil has just gone by on a windmill; and God have mercy upon me!"-N. Y. Post.

THE FAIRY'S DREAM

CHEAP CHARLEY.

THERE'S a legend in the city
And the country, often told
How the ravages of Time Caused the clothing to grow old.

Then the fairies set to thinking How the clothing they could mend. Or find some Merchant Tailor On whom they could depend.

There was Pat from Emerald Island But his stitches wouldn't hold: Then came the smooth faced Yankee Who to cheat made awful bold.

The man from Chinee he no likee,

And his seamee muchee bad; And blitchee come to pieces, Make manee muchee mad. Then the piries waved their wand On the German Fatherland,

And brought forth a benefactor

Known as Charles, the Woollen They bade him cross the ocean, On free soil his trade to ply, And he's known from Maine to Utah

CHEAP CHARLEY is his cognomen A name that's pleasing to the ears, And when he sees a man in tatters His honest heart dissolves in tears

As the man who cannot lie.

Fine Suits he sells at lowest figures Hats and Caps, with Ties to match You'll find profit, gentle stranger, If you lift his welcome latch.

Cheap Charley's stock is always largest And best selected in the town; It makes the other dealers scary, Causing many an angry frown.

But he likes to please the people, And for rivals little cares; Competition makes him happy, While he sells a suit that wears Go and look his stock all over,

Compared with others you have no-It will surely make you smile.

Note its make, and fit and style;

On the corner of Old Square and Main street, You the nicest store will see Where you are treated with polite-

By Cheap Charley and all his employes.

Write your girl about our harness-How it fits you like a glove; And she'll answer: Oh, come quickly Dearest Charley, sweetest love!

Oh, that name of magic sweetness, Chawls, some call it who are Wylde,

While the sun flowers nod in silence And the zephyrs whisper mild. But Cheap Charley is the hero Of more suits than those of men;

He tries them on the lawyer Without judge or jurymen. The judge wears his ermine, And the witnesses the coats;

The jury scan the fabrics While they cast the clearing votes. Talk about your clothing stores Cheap Charley can't be beat; He'll cover up your nakedness !

And make you look so sweet. The cops will never stop you, Or show undue surprise; They'll pass you by as gentlemen And shut their wondering eyes.

Then go to Charley's if you'd thrive, And win the world's esteem; An ill clad man is out of luck, And always looks so mean

That people shun him on the street, And pass him by unknown. While mentally they calculate He is an awkward clown.

Then write your girl a letter, And tell her you have found Cheap Charley has a wedding suit Throughout the world renowned.

To name the day, the time and place Those clothes shall first appear; While Cheap Charley's name shall always be, A honeshold word most dear.

He then explained in detail the reasons, which induced him to appoint Mr Dorsey. When he opened court in that county there were 160 criminal cases on the docket, and the Grand Jury found 100 other indictments during the term. A lawless condition of society had existed in that district for some time, requiring on two occasions United States troops to be sent from Fort Union. The principle troubles had grown out of differences between cattle and sheep men, each contending for exclusive use of the range. Mr. Dorsey was a large cattle owner and one of the wealthiest men in the county, and In the preservation of the public peace be fore the grand jury Mackin swore the contending factions of cattle and that he did not procure the printing sheep berders. HOSTILITIES COMMENCED.

London, November 15.—Grim.vlsaged War's wrinkled front is glowing over the Balkan provinces. Servia is at It in earnest, and there is not to be child's nlay. A dispatch received last evening says the first actual battle occurred on or about noon yesterday at Tru, a little village on the Bulgarian frontier, on the road to Viasina, by the advance guard coming unexpectedly upon a body of Ruigarian skirmishers. The Servians' Buigarlan skirmishers. The Servians' advance was compelled to halt under the heavy fire of the enemy. Reinforcements excitement and enthusiasm prevails in were hurried forward and were met by a this city. Troops are being hurried forlarge body of Bulgarians who had come support their skirminhers. Serviums formed and charged the Bulgariso galiantly charged the Bulgarian position, forcing them to retreat after a by a vigorous attack on the Bulgarian bot fight. The pursuit was kept up for some distance. The casualties are not known yet, but from what can be ascertained the Bulgarians suffered severely

This first victory greatly clates the Servians, who are pressing forward with all speed. The first great battle is expected to take place this (Sunday) morning, when the advance forces expect to reach Dragoman Defile, a rocky gorge on the frontier. A large force of Bulgarians nave been concentrated in this plass and nave thrown up intrenchments. A bloody and sanguinary condict is expected.
At Belgrade it was officially announced jesterday that a force of Bulgarians ou flursday attacked a body of Servians near Vlasina. The Servians returned the fire-

Ten Buigarians, kined or wounded, were telt on Servian territory. Several of the Servians were wounded. In consequence of the attack of the Buigarians, the Cabinet on Friday decided to declare war. Accordingly peace ended and war began sesterday morning, when the Servian army moved over the border. King Milan has assumed command of the Servian army and active operations will be begun at once. The Servian army has commenced moving forward and an adrance on Sofia is anticipated. The troops displayed much enthusiasm. The Servian army 18 marching in three divisions on Sofia. Dispatches from Belgrade state that King Milan has informed the powers that Servia has declared war against Bulgaria because Bulgaria arbitrarily attacked a position which the Moravia division of the King's troops held in Servian terratory, opposite the Bulgarian frontier. King Milan has also issued a procla nation, which is in substance as follows:

Servia can not allow Bulgaria, which has already proved a hard neighbor, to disturb the balance of power in the Bal-kans to her exclusive advantage." He then alludes to what he calls the unjusti-fiable Bulgarian customs duties on the contier; the unlawful selzure of Bregova and the encouragement by Bulgaria of the Servian robels condemned for high treason. (King!Milau here refers probably to Peko Paviovich, the Herzegovinian thief, and Passico, the Servian Ridical ieader who was expelled by King Milar from the Skupstschina. Copies of revointionary proclamations signed by thes men and distributed throughout Servia were recently found by Servian officials, and the latter claimed that they were lisseminated by the revolutionists under Bulgarian protection. This Bulgaria feeled, claiming that the men were many miles distant from the Servian frontier nterned in a fortress.) King Milan also alludes to alleged Illreatment of Servian emigrants in Bulgaria; the Blockade of the frontier by Buigaria, and alleged attacks by undis-Servian people and troops In conclusion the King says: "I cannot suffer these in-tentional provocations, and I therefore idopt the policy of open hostility which has been forced upon me by Bulgarla. trament of arms, the bravery of her army, the protection of the Almighty. [ rely upon my people's patriotism."

The various forces of Servia are as billows: Field army, 62,088 men with 12,856 men with 34 guns; reserve formations, 12,856 men with 34 guns; reserve army, or landwebr, 52,270 men with 120 guns; andstrum, 45,000 men, or a total of 170, 112 officers and men, and 413 guns. The infantry is armed with the Mauser rife, Improved by Major Megovanovitch, which is of a calibre of 10.15 millimetres. The artillery is variously armed with muzzleloaders and Krupp guns. The Bulgarian field army consists of 24,000 infantry, 1,400 cavalry, two regiments and one company of artillery, 2,340 men; a battallon of engineers, 830 men; a detachment of train, 2,000 men, and a force of gendearmente, 1,600 men; or a total force of 02,220 men with 104 guns. The loiantry is armed with Bordan rifles and the batteries have Krupp guns and guns of the latest Russian pattern. The reserve force consists of 24,000 men. There are also twelve battallogs of landstrum of 600 men each, or 7,200 men, making a total force of 69,000 men. There is no want of arms, but there is scarcely a sufficient force of cavalry and artiflery. The cavalry numbers 1,500 men. The scarcity of officers, since many of the Russian officers returned home, is also a serious matter. Prince Alexander is an acre and energetic soldier.

The Eastern Roumelian army com-prises 18,224 men of the first levy, 19,-187 of the second, 23,197 of the reserve and 2,422 men of the active reserve, making a total of 64,030 men. The number of officers available is altogether out of proportion to the number of men. Ther is no searcity of arms, as there is about 80,000 Kruka, 7,000 Berdan and 6,000 Martini-Henry rafes in the province. The artillery consists of four gues. The Bulgarian arsensis at Russischuk and Rasgrad contain a good supply of arms, uniforms and equipments. the march. What the end will be none can foresee. The first intimation of this action on the part of Servia was received here from Sona last night, but was not generally credited until this morning, when its confirmation was made by the Servian ambassador here. The general and most reliable opinions agree that the war has been precipitated by the blunder

ings of the Constantinople conference Their note to King Milan ordering a dis armament of his troops, which elicited his curt and flat refusal, gave no other alternative: he had to proceed to carry out his designs at once, for delay would have enabled the conference to compet him to demobilize, which meant revolution and the possible loss of his crown. He de-cided on prompt measures. Taking advantage of the late Bulgarian raid into Viasina, he yesterday morning officially announced to Prince Alexander, through M. Ranagabade, the Servian envoyat Bucharest, that he considered this raid an outrageous and unjustifiable act, which he felt it his duty to resent, and war was announced. Prince Alexander's reply was conrecous and to the point. He bowed to the inevitable.

King Milan has issued a stirring address to his troops and assumed personal composition will be experienced, for not only Is Soila strongly defended, but the Dragoman Pass, a most important moun-

The party drove in from Prairie Home, a distance of 24 miles, and were going to the residence of Hiram Johnson on West Cerro Gordo street. Just as they reached the corner of Church and North streets the children from the Church street school came out shouting and screaming as they usually do. The horses took fright, and wheeling shout suddenly they went plunging and tearing southward on the west side of Church street, part of the way down the brick walk, the wagon striking against the trees along the boulevard. Mrs. Sweet was the first to fall out above the J. G. Cloyd residence. Peltor held on until the horses collided with a huge tree in front of D. C. Snockley's residence when Mrs. Green was thrown out. The shock was terrific, and how the occupants escaped being dashed to death s natoviahing. One horse broke away and disappeared, but the other had his left hind leg broken and was abot to end his misery. Mrs. Green and Mrs. Sweet were taken into Mr. Cloyd's residence where they rested awhile and then walked to the Johnson home. They were badly shocked. The hind wheels of the wagon were torn oif by a tree near the North street corner, and slong the walk to the vocaliste, said to be simply immense in William street corner were strewn sacks their line. These allegations are categorically devied in due form by the defendant, and the issue is thus defined for decision by the court.

EVANSVILLE, IND., November 14.—The steamer Will S. Hays arrived at Henderson, Ky, early yesterday morning from New Orleans, and in attempting to pass under the bridge, met with a serious accident. Measurements were taken of the distance from the bridge to the water, being about eighty-five feet, and there was supposed to be ample room to pass under the bridge, but the chimneys reached too high by several feet, and one was torn entirely off, falling across the texas and crushing in the root. The other was broken off about six feet from the top. A deck-hand was knocked over-board into the river, but was rescued. The liays returned to shore, and will be repaired at Henderson sufficiently to steam to Louisville.

An investigation showed that the left leg was missing, the right hand was torn off. was missing, the right hand was tornoff, there was a cut on the back of the bead and every bone in the body was broken as if it had gone through a grist-mill. The face was the only part of the corpse that looked at all natural. A verdict of accidental death was frendered. The missing leg was found in Canada yesterterday morning, and the remains were interred in Oakwood Cemetery at Suspension Bridge. Pleuro-Pneumonia and Hog Cholera.

TRENTON, N. J., November 14.-The spread of pleuro-pnehmonia and hog cholers throughout this State is causing the State Board of Health considerable auxiety. Pleuro-pneumonia now provails extensively in Eurlington, Mon-mouth and Ocean countles. Hog cholera is at present confined to the more easterly countles, and especially to Bergen. Cattle have been dying very fast in the three counties first named. The State Board of Health sent some of its assist-ants to the infected districts a few days ago, and they are adopting rigorous There are more than 3,000 letters measures. Quarantines are being estin the Brooklyn post office, addresstablished on all farms where the disease s known to exist.

Have Not Withdrawn.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 14 .-General B. T. Johnson emphatically contradicts the report that the Baltimore parties to the telephone case have with-drawn. He says the Washington Telephone Company, of Baltimore, which he represents, is supporting the application to bring a suit in the name of the United States with all the force it is capable of ringing to bear. Mr. Johnson feels connow in progress, Secretary Lamar will advise the Attorney-General to bring sult against the Boll Company.

A Motion Denied.

New York, November 14.—In the quade ruplex suit of the Western Union Telegraph Company against the Baltimore & hio Company for infringement of patent, a motion made by the Baltimore & Ohio Company in the United States Court yesterday to strike out disclaimers of-fered in evidence by the Western Union Company was denied by Judge Shipman. Had the motion prevailed it would have delayed the conclusion of the suit sev Congressmen Boyle's Condition Uniontown, Pa., November 14.- "Father is resting easier, and we don't think he is dangerously injured' was the response Ed Boyle gave to the hundreds of telegrams that came pouring in from all parts of the country. Mr. Boyle was found at his home yesterday afternoon propped up in bed. His body is one mass of bruises and cuts. He hopes to be able to attend the opening session of Congress in December.

Sterling Didn't Get There. NEW YORK, November 14 .-- Collector

Hedden vesterday afternoon decided to appoint J. W. O'Brien to the weighership of the Brooklyn District, made va cant by the suspension of Geo. W. Ster-ling. Mr. O'Brien has been clerk in both the Wat and Treasury departments at Washington for twenty years. His standing on the examination was nearly ninety-five per cent.

Shakers Shook. WASHINGTON, D. C., November 14.-In spite of rainy weather, more than a hun dred visitors called at the executive manslon | yesterday afternoon to shake hands with the President. Mr. Cleveland shook hands with his callers rapidly, and then returned to the library. The President of late has curtailed the hand-shaking business in order to devote more time to
